By EDMOND HOLME.

TO THE READER.

THE Public may probably think the price of this Directory high, but when the great increase of the two towns, and consequently the increase of Names, Country Tradesmen, Carriers, Coaches, &c. is considered, that objection will cease. Some might expect an account of our Manufactures, the increased Population of both Town and Neighbourhood, &c. but these wou'd not have only swelled the Size and Price, but anticipated in some degree, another Work, long been preparing for the Public Eye, viz. A Description of Manchester, and the Country Twenty Miles round, with an Account of the Ancient Families, and the rise and growing opulence of the present Gentry, &c. &c.
